Tranſlation of a Letter from his Serene Highneſs Prince Ferdinand of Brunſwick, to his Majeſty.

SIR, Warbourg, Auguſt 1.

I Have the Honour of acquainting your Majeſty with the Defeat of the Reſerve under the Chevalier de Muy, who having paſſed the Dymel at Stadbergen, extended his Corps down the Banks of that River, in order to cut me off from Weſtphalia, whilſt M. de Broglie was advancing with his Main Army towards my Camp at Kalle, and Prince Xavier with his Reſerve, on our Left, towards Caſſel. Hereupon I determined to leave General Kielmanſegge with a Body of Troops at Caſſel, for the Protection of that City, and to march myſelf with the Army the Night of the 30th, in order to paſs the Dymel between Liebenau and Dringelbourg; which was happily executed. The Hereditary Prince, who had paſſed the Dymel on the 29th, to go and reinforce General Sporcke, (who was poſted ſince the 28th between Liebenau and Corbeke) reconnoitred the Poſition of the Chevalier de Muy, who from the 30th in the Morning was in Poſſeſſion of a very advantageous Camp between Warbourg and Ochſendorff. It was agreed, that the Prince and M. Sporcke ſhould turn the Enemy's Left, whilſt I advanced with the Army upon their Front; which was done with all poſſible Succeſs; the Enemy being attacked almoſt in the ſame Inſtant by M. Sporcke and the Hereditary Prince in Flank and in Rear. As the Infantry of the Army could not march faſt enough, to charge at the ſame Time, I ordered my Lord Granby to advance with the Cavalry of the Right. The Engliſh Artillery got up on a Gallop, and ſeconded the Attack in a ſurprizing Manner. All the Troops have done well, and particularly the Engliſh. The French Cavalry, tho' very numerous, retreated, as ſoon as ours advanced to charge them, excepting only three Squadrons, that kept their Ground, but were ſoon broke. A Part of the Engliſh Cavalry then fell upon the Enemy's Infantry, which ſuffered extremely; and particularly the Regiment of Lochmann Swiſs. I ordered an Attack to be made on the Town of Warbourg by the Legion Britannique; and the Enemy, finding themſelves thus attacked upon their two Flanks, in Front and in Rear, retired with the utmoſt Precipitation, and with the Loſs of many Men, as well from the Fire of our Artillery, as from the Attacks of the Cavalry. Many were drowned in the Dymel, in attempting to ford it. The Enemy's Loſs in Men is very conſiderable: I cannot exactly eſcertain it, but it is ſuppoſed, that they have left fifteen hundred Men upon the Field of Battle; and the Amount of the Priſoners, we have made, probably exceeds that Number. We have taken ten Pieces of Cannon, with ſome Colours. The Loſs on our Side is very moderate, and falls chiefly upon the brave Battalion of Maxwell's Engliſh Grenadiers, which did Wonders. Colonel Beckwith, who commanded the Brigade, formed of Engliſh Grenadiers and Scotch Highlanders, diſtinguiſhed himſelf greatly, and has been wounded in the Head.

My Lord Granby, with the Engliſh Cavalry, has contributed extremely to the Succeſs of the Day. I charge Capt. Faucitt, his Lordſhip's Aide-de-Camp, with this Letter, to be delivered to Your Majeſty, and to give Your Majeſty a more particular Account of the Action from his own Mouth, till I can have the Honour of laying at Your Majeſty's Feet a more extenſive and circumſtantial Relation.

I am, with the moſt profound Reſpect,
Sir,
Your Majeſty's moſt humble,
And moſt obedient
Couſin and Servant,

Ferdinand Duc de Brunſwic & de Lunebourg.

Copy of a Letter from the Marqueſs of Granby to the Earl of Holderneſſe.

My Lord,

IT is with the greateſt Satisfaction, that I have the Honour of acquainting your Lordſhip of the Succeſs of the Hereditary Prince Yeſterday Morning.

General Sporcken's Corps marched from the Camp at Kalle to Liebenau, about Four in the Afternoon of the 29th; the Hereditary Prince followed, the ſame Evening, with a Body of Troops, among which were the two Engliſh Battalions of Grenadiers, the two of Highlanders, and four Squadrons of Dragoons, Cope's and Conway's.

The Army was under Arms all Day on the 30th; and, about Eleven at Night, marched off in Six Columns to Liebenau. About Five the next Morning, the whole Army aſſembled, and formed on the Heights near Corbeke. The Hereditary Prince was, at this Time, marching in two Columns, in order to o turn the Enemy's Left Flank; which he did, by marching to Donhelbourg, leaving Klein-Eder on his Left, and forming in two Lines, with his Left towards Doſſel, and his Right near Grimbeck, oppoſite to the Left Flank of the Enemy, whoſe Poſition was, with the Left to the high Hill near Oſſendorff, and their Right to Warbourg, into which Place they had flung Fiſcher's Corps. The Hereditary Prince immediately attacked the Enemy's Flank; and, after a very ſharp Diſpute, obliged them to give Way; and, by a continual Fire, kept forcing them to fall back upon Warbourg. The Army was, at this Time, marching with the greateſt Diligence to attack the Enemy in Front; but the Infantry could not get up in Time; General Waldegrave, at the Head of the Britiſh, preſſed their March as much as poſſible; no Troops could ſhew more Eagerneſs to get up, than they ſhewed. Many of the Men, from the Heat of the Weather, and over-ſtraining themſelves to get on, through moraſſy and very difficult Ground, ſuddenly dropped down on their March.

General Moſtyn, who was at the Britiſh Cavalry that was formed on the Right of our Infantry, on the other Side of a large Wood, upon receiving the Duke's Orders to come up with the Cavalry as faſt as poſſible, made ſo much Expedition, bringing them up at a full Trott, though the Diſtance was near 5 Miles, that the Britiſh Cavalry had the Happineſs to arrive in Time, to ſhare the Glory of the Day, having ſucceſsfully charged, ſeveral Times, both the Enemy's Cavalry and Infantry.

I ſhould do Injuſtice to the General Officers, to every Officer and private Man, of the Cavalry, if I did not beg your Lordſhip would aſſure His Majeſty, that nothing could exceed their gallant Behaviour on that Occaſion.

Captain Phillips made ſo much Expedition with his Cannon, as to have an Opportunity, by a ſevere Cannonade, to oblige thoſe who had paſſed the Dymel, and were formed on the other Side, to retire with the utmoſt Precipitation.

I received his Serene Highneſs's Orders Yeſterday in the Evening, to paſs the River after them, with the 12 Britiſh Battalions, and 10 Squadrons; and am now encamped upon the Heights of Wilda, about four Miles from Warbourg, on the Heights of which their grand Army is encamped.

M. de Muy is now retiring from the Heights of Volkmiſſen, where he lay under Arms laſt Night, towards Wolfſhagen. I cannot give your Lordſhip an Account of the Loſs on either Side. Captain Faucitt, whom I ſend off with this, ſhall get all the Intelligence he can upon this Head before he ſets off.

I am, &c.

GRANBY.

P. S. Saturday Morning Six o'Clock.

As I had not an Opportunity of ſending off Capt. Faucitt ſo ſoon as I intended, I opened my Letter to acquaint your Lordſhip, That I have juſt rejoined the Grand Army with my Detachment.
